Streak into favor with friends this summer when you serve "Heat Lightning" refreshers, a dramatic combination of ice cream, quick chocolate-flavored mix and milk. First aid for the hot and thirsty was never achieved in such simple fashion as with hot drinks made with quick chocolate-flavored mix and milk. The mix stirs into milk and blends instantly. No beaters are necessary. Keep a box of quick chocolate-flavored mix on the shelf for a shortcut to nourishing coolers for summer.

"Heat Lightning"

For each serving, put scoop of vanilla ice cream in 12-ounce glass. Sprinkle with 1 heaping teaspoon quick chocolate-flavored mix. Repeat until glass is $\frac{3}{4}$ full. To serve, add milk to fill glass. Stir gently. Add whipped topping if desired. Eat with spoon.

TIPS FROM TIPPIT

Texas traffic law requires the driver of a vehicle approaching a railroad grade crossing to stop within 50 ft., but not less than 15 ft. from the nearest rail of such railroad, and shall not proceed until he can do so safely when:

1. A clearly visible electric or mechanical signal device gives warning of the immediate approach of a train.
2. A crossing gate is lowered, or when a human flagman gives or continues to give a signal of the approach or passage of a train.
3. A railroad engine approaching within approximately 1500 feet of the highway crossing emits a signal audible from such distance, and such engine, by reason of its speed or nearness to such crossing, is an immediate hazard.
4. An approaching train is plainly visible and is in hazardous proximity to the crossing.

1 KILOWATT HOUR

MILKS THIS COW FOR 15 DAYS...

Many things have changed in rural areas . . . still milking comes twice a day. But on most dairy farms, this chore is now handled efficiently and economically with milking machines powered by electricity from BELFALLS ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE. In many modern dairy farms, the milk goes directly to the cooler which means fresher, more wholesome milk on your table.

BRAZOS ELECTRIC POWER COOPERATIVE of Waco generates power that is distributed by BELFALLS ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE and 18 other distribution cooperatives in 55 counties of the Brazos River Watershed. This power furnished by BRAZOS ELECTRIC POWER COOPERATIVE helps lighten the load, brighten the day and in many instances increase profits for more than a quarter million rural citizens.

The abundant supply of electric power furnished by Brazos and distributed by BELFALLS ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE is Helping Texas Grow.

Outdoors In Texas

In the apportionment of Federal Fish and Wildlife Restoration funds, derived from the excise tax on the sale of outdoor equipment, Texas receives maximum participation.

This is money actually paid in by sportsmen on the purchase of guns, ammunition and fish equipment. It is collected by the government and apportioned with a formula devised by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Out of the total distributed during a recent two-year period, some $14 million went for wildlife work and about $6 million for fisheries. Texas was one of four states receiving the maximum $695,100 for wildlife and $276,200 for fisheries. Others were Alaska, California and Minnesota.

When the program was initiated 25 years ago, the maximum available to any state was $150,000. This increase is just one indication of the growth of hunting and fishing as a participation sport.

Federal money is matched on the basis of 75 percent Federal to 25 percent State.

Texas, for the most part, has been able to use its entire apportionment in providing for better hunting and fishing. As a result, Texas today has an outstanding wildlife and fisheries program, under the direction of biologists of the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

This has been largely responsible for the tremendous comeback of wildlife in Texas, and for providing the best fishing the state has ever known.

Basically it also has provided for a great deal of research which doesn't always appear on the surface.

But what is evident is the wonderful expansion program in management areas.

Today these management areas are scattered widely over the state. For instance, in the Big Bend Country of West Texas the P&W Commission owns and operates something like 100,000 acres of deer country. It is bordered on one side by the Big Bend National Park and on the other side by the Rio Grande.

Here wildlife is managed by the best known practices. In this connection each year a number of Texas sportsmen get free hunts, permitting them to take off the surplus game and keep the wildlife in balance.

Landowners in the area, watching progress of the management work, now are including wildlife in their plan of operation. As a result, West Texas today has more and better deer than at anytime in this century.

Another of these projects is in Kerr County. Here, for nearly ten years, the eradication of rough fish, have had the privilege of free trips to get their deer.

Down on the Texas coast, at Big Hill Bayou near Port Arthur, and at Sheldon, just out of Houston, resting and feeding grounds for waterfowl have been provided with the use of these funds.

Great strides in fishery management have been made particularly in the eradication of rough fish. A number of impoundments have restored game fishing to the fullest degree with complete kills. Other larger impoundments, through selective kills, have been able to up-grade their fishing.

It must be remembered that Texas has no large natural lakes. Every major lake in Texas is the result of a dam across some stream. Many of these are in Central and West Texas, where, a few years back they were practically devoid of game fish.

In fact, some historians say that black bass were not found west of the Colorado until the present century. This is easy to believe because there was no water to support them.

Now there are new and larger developments in East Texas. So the whole state is benefiting.

DIPLOMATIC POUCH

WASHINGTON D.C. The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State.

New Citizen Thanks

I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to the U.S. Department of State which tried in 1955 to effect my release from the Communist Hungarian Government when I and another Hungarian local employee of the American Legation in Budapest, Hungary, had been arrested.

On this day, the 10th anniversary of our liberation from the prison during the Hungarian Revolution in 1956, it is a great pleasure to express these sentiments to you, having since then become a citizen of this free country.

B. K.
New York, N.Y.

Dear Dr. K.:

We, on our part, appreciate your devotion and loyalty to the United States. We wish you success in your new career and congratulate you on becoming a citizen of the United States.

Famine Aid

I have recently read that the famine in India may take the lives of up to 2 million people. If this is true I would assume that there is a special food fund for India. I have contacted local newspapers and they have no information about such a fund. If there is such a fund, I would like to make a contribution to it. Please send me information concerning the proper channels for making contributions to India. Thank you.

D. F. R.
LaJolla, Cal.

Dear Mr. R.:

Your desire to help is very gratifying. We suggest you contact one of the private American voluntary agencies which not only distribute food to the hungry and destitute, but aid in relief programs and self-help efforts.

Our most active on-going programs among these organizations are with CARE, (500 First Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016), Catholic Relief Services (350 Fifth Ave., N.Y. 10001) and UNICEF (United Nations Plaza, New York, N.Y.). Again, thank you for your letter; your concern is greatly appreciated.

Alaska Purchase Price

This summer we will have our Centennial celebration here in Alaska. I have doubts about one fact: the purchase price of Alaska debt to Russia was included, we only paid $1,400,000 for Alaska. Could you clarify the actual purchase price?

R.V.A.
Fairbanks, Alaska

Dear Mr. A.:

A search of the files of the Department has disclosed no evidence that a portion of the purchase price served as compensation for the visit of the Russian fleet to the United States during the Civil War. Furthermore, the records do not indicate that the visit of the Russian fleet to the ports of San Francisco and New York was for the purpose of strengthening the Union blockade of our southern coast. Indeed, research in the files of the Russian Foreign Ministry by an unofficial scholar, Frank A. Golder, has led to a conclusion that the Russian fleet came to this country for quite different reasons. In this connection you may wish to read Golder's article entitled "The Russian Fleet and the Civil War" in the American Historical Review, volume II (1914-1915), pages 801-812.

Chemists Report Soil Testing Up; More Needed In Fertilizer Use

COLLEGE STATION
Texas agricultural producers in 1966 submitted more soil samples for analysis and used more fertilizer than ever before.

But the 29,980 samples tested by the Agricultural Extension Service Laboratories and the Stephen F. Austin and Wharton County Junior College Labs in 1966 falls far short of the 100,000 tests needed annually to adequately guide fertilization programs, say C. D. Welch and Carl Gray, Extension soil chemists at Texas A&M University.

The soil chemists explain the 100,000 figure this way. They say if each 40 acres of crop and improved pasture land were tested once every five years, the annual rate of sampling would be 250,000. Figuring the amount of land used for low intensity production and subtracting it from the higher potential lands, the net result is their 100,000 figure.

Beef Consumption Sets New Record

Grandmother may talk about the "good ol' days," but when it comes to eating beef, chances are she is consuming almost twice as much per year as she did 20 years ago.

Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist at Texas A&M University, reports that production and consumption of beef could set new records in 1967, according to government and meat industry estimates. Forecasts are for an output of about twice as much as was being produced by the cattle and beef industry 20 years ago.

With that much beef available, Americans can consume an average of 103.6 pounds per person. Per capita consumption of beef tallied around 60 pounds 20 years ago. Thus, in only two decades, modern production and processing efficiencies have made available some 40 pounds more beef per person.

Mrs. Clyatt adds that beef accounts for well over half the record-breaking 33.3 billion pounds of all meat - beef, pork, veal and lamb - being produced this year.

And, as even grandmother would admit, that's a lot of beef.

use growth, the chemists note that the movement of commercial fertilizer from July 1965 - April 1966 was 30 percent above the same period of 1966-'67; 1,296,329 tons compared with 990,324 tons.

Welch and Gray attribute this favorable attitude toward fertilization to the fact that more agriculturists are realizing that profitable production levels cannot be reached without adequate available nutrients in the soil.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

—By—

J. D. MOORE

Unexpected infestations of bollworms in many fields have caused farmers to apply stronger poisons than are desired at this time. Usually, we like to get out of the fields with insecticides by June 15, if possible. This lets beneficial insects build up to the extent that they are helpful in keeping down bollworm infestations.

Farmers confronted with bollworm problems should apply Azodrin at the rate of one half to one pound per acre in order to stop the worms. To check for bollworms, examine the terminal buds of 100 plants at several points in the field. Begin treatment when bollworm eggs and four to five young worms are found per 100 terminals, or 5 percent of the small squares and bolls have been injured. Apply insecticides at 5 day intervals or less. Check fields closely two to three days following each application to insure effective control.

Plant diseases are showing up in increasing numbers as the season progresses. Plant disease control is most difficult because it is a preventive program. When you have dark spots on the leaves of your plants, the disease has already occurred.

The application of fungicides at regular intervals is the only method of controlling plant diseases. Zineb is the most widely used fungicide we have. In the case of rose diseases, a fungicide containing Captan is more effective. For some of our vegetables, Maneb and Manzate are more effective in controlling diseases affecting the leaves as well as the fruits and stems of the plants.

The field of insect and disease control is so broad it is advisable to contact the county extension office for information on disease and insect control.

Poage Introduces Legislation To Close Egypt's U.S. Cotton Market

Legislation to bar the importation of Egyptian extra long staple cotton into the United States, and permitting U.S. farmers to supply this market now enjoyed by Egypt, was introduced in the House last week by Congressman Poage (D-Tex.), Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture and by Rep. Morris (D-N. Mex.), with the joint sponsorship of 23 other House Members.

"There is no use in denying our farmers the right to produce this cotton, and giving this market to those who trample our flag," Mr. Poage declared. He continued, "I have never understood the reason for importing extra long staple cotton when our own farmers are capable of supplying our need. In 1963 we produced 161,000 bales here in the United States. This year we will produce only about 71,000 bales. I think the American people would like to see some of this market returned to our own producers - especially in the light of recent events."

The legislation would close an Egyptian market in the United States amounting to around $12-$15 million annually.

The U.S. now permits the importation of 83,000 bales of extra long staple cotton each year, while restraining the domestic production of such cotton through acreage allotments. The new bill would permit an increase in production by American farmers to fill the market for some 69,000 bales previously supplied by Egypt. This would virtually double U.S. production.

Further, the legislation instructs the Secretary of Agriculture to give domestic producers the opportunity to produce an amount of such extra long staple cotton equal to any reduction in supply which may result from this enactment.

The present allotment for production of extra long staple cotton in the United States is 70,500 acres. This cotton is produced principally in Western Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Poage said there is no danger of short supply in the United States by cutting off Egyptian imports, as there now are stocks of approximately 200,000 bales in this country. The extra long staple cotton has a staple length of 1-3/4 inch or better. It sells in the United States for around 50 cents a pound, whereas most other cotton of shorter staple brings to farmers not more than half this amount per pound.

Nighttime Sunshine

Longest Day of the Year, that is what Wednesday was. A typical June 21, it was.

Officially, a total of 14 hours and seven minutes of sunshine was due.

Add an hour of daylight saving time, and it would seem there never was much night.

Golfers and outdoorsmen of all kinds, city dwellers and people who like to work in the yard are generally happy with the long day, made longer by DST.

Farmers often think it to their disadvantage, some saying they get up in the dark, work a long day and go to bed in the dark. What was lost at the beginning, of course, was found at the ending.

June 21, official opening of summer began at 9:23 a.m., the time when the sun crosses its "infernal" vernal equinox. (Astronomers, please explain.)

Mixed emotions or no, this first day of summer, elongated by DST, found the swimmer swimming, the mower mowing and the complainer complaining about too much day and not enough night, at the right time at last.

Kids are the only ones unanimous in enjoying the longest day and the perfect excuse for not going to bed at a regular time.

"But, Mom," (at 9:30 p.m. DST) "the sun's still shining."

Musical Pride In UN

The UN Assembly is as busy watching opposing diplomatic delegations walking out on one another as listening to pleas for a settlement of the Israeli-Egyptian crisis.

US Ambassador Arthur Goldberg introduced a five-point plan pointing to direct talks between Arabs and Israelis. He made a conciliatory presentation.

The while, the Russian delegation walks out on the Israeli. Israeli on Egyptian and Syrian on Israeli in gestures of disdain.

This game of musical pride drew little solace from UN Secretary U Thant who cracked down on the Israelis for giving a less than "valid" report on UN forces withdrawing from the Egyptian frontier.

The U.S. position of conciliation, the tone set by President Johnson, thus far is the only sensible result of the post - Egyptian military debacle imposed by the Jews.

U.S. handling of the whole Middle East crisis has been laudable. But the diplomatic tension equals the white heat of a brief, open war.

Top Contestants Keep Rivalry Keen For 4-H Dairy Honors

Right beside the Dairy Princesses this year could be a Dairy Prince. But there is no glamor contest for young dairymen. Maybe there should be.

It's true that many lads and lasses are honored throughout dairyland for being "outstanding" owners of Guernsey, Jersey, Holstein, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss or Milking' Shorthorns.

Another category in which boys and girls can share equal billing is the national 4-H Dairy program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. Opportunities are available for all to learn and achieve certain objectives. More than 100,000 youths participate in the program.

Last year at the national level, girls surpassed the boys by claiming five of six $500 national scholarships awarded by Oliver Corp. of Chicago, the 4-H Dairy program sponsor. And 31 of 50 state award winners were girls.

The 4-H project covers things such as animal science, health sanitation, production, herd improvement, management, judging and showing dairy cattle. Detailed records must be kept. Winners are selected by the Extension Service.

RR Commission Ups Oil Allowable

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

Railroad Commission authorized Texas oil industry to produce an additional 2,968,000 barrels of oil during the last two weeks of June in view of curtailed supplies from the unsettled Middle East.

Commission increased the June allowable from 3.8 percent to 35.9 percent, retroactive to June 1. This figure will permit maximum oil production of 3,112,191 barrels daily compared to current 2,992,296 barrels. Commission postponed setting an allowable for July, but another moderate increase is almost certain.

State officials, conscious of the Legislature's special tax session looming next year and a possible revenue windfall (which could reduce the new tax need) from the crisis-caused oil production jump.

With an increase from 10 to 13 days a month in production, there is no telling at this point how much the ultimate increase will be. Before the emergency situation, the oil production tax income for the coming year had been estimated at nearly $140 million.

These factors figure in the magnitude of future allowable increases:

—Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Iraq and Algeria have banned oil shipments to U.S. and Britain. Libya's production has been halted by a strike.

—Arabs want to nationalize their oil fields or call in Spain and France to develop their petroleum industry, replacing the U.S. and Britain.

—Suez Canal may remain blocked for several months. Thus any oil shipments would have to round the Cape of Good Hope. Trip would be longer and more expensive.

Interstate Oil Compact adopted a resolution calling for a 12.2 percent limit on the ratio of imported oil to domestic stocks east of the Rocky Mountains. Experts say present situation demonstrates need for better government attitude toward domestic production and industry development.

DRIVERS POINTS

Auto drivers may have forgotten, but they will be reminded of points' starting August 1.

That's when the new insurance plan adopted last July by the State Board of Insurance begins to show on insurance rates. Drivers will pay 15 percent more for insurance if they have one point charged against them, 35 percent for two points, 60 percent for three points and 90 percent for four points.

Points are assessed for accidents or traffic law violations which came after August 1, 1966, when the plan was adopted. Penalties will apply when auto insurance policies are bought or renewed after August 1, this year.

A driver who is assessed points can "work them off." Only points assessed after August 1, 1966, will count. But after three years of being charged more, the points drop off the driver's record, for rate purposes.

Board believes this will lower the basic rates, thus will reward no-point drivers.

14-YEAR-OLD DRIVERS

Fourteen-year-olds who complete driver education before August 28 can still get a license good until its regular expiration date.

Homer Garrison Jr., Director of Texas Dept. of Public Safety, issued the interpretation following numerous calls about new licensing law amendments.

New law which goes into effect in late August would raise the minimum age for licensing drivers with behind-the-wheel instruction to 16, except in unusual cases. Garrison said, however, he did not interpret the new law as denying the privilege of driving to 14-year-olds who already have qualified under existing regulations.

DESALTING FEASIBLE

New study concludes that large scale desalting in the Lower Rio Grande Valley can provide a dependable source of good municipal water at costs comparable to that of conventional production.

Study for Texas Water Development Board and U.S. Department of Interior said water could be made available to a metropolitan district for about 25 to 31 cents per 1,000 gallons at a desalination plant. Cost of delivery to individual cities in the Lower Valley would increase that figure from one to two cents per 1,000.

COURTS SPEAK

U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to hear arguments October 2 on whether the one-man-one-vote standard it applied to congressional and legislative districts also fits county commissioners precincts in Midland.

State Supreme Court found no error in lower court opinions dismissing the case of a woman who sued Galveston County for $20,000 after finding glass in scrambled eggs served her at the county's Memorial Hospital.

A certificate-holding student pilot does not meet standard insurance policy definitions of a duly-licensed aircraft operator whose passengers remain insured while in flight, State Supreme Court concluded in a Gillespie County case.

Texas Water Development Board found San Antonio River Authority eligible to seek $960,000 in state aid to build a low water dam on Cibola Creek and provide water supply to Karnes City and Kenedy. SARA also will seek a federal grant of $915,000.

At the same time, Board extended for 120 days a $2,700,000 loan commitment to the Upper Leon River Municipal Water District for facilities to take water from the Proctor dam reservoir to Comanche, De Leon, Dublin and Gorman, pending outcome of bid for a federal grant.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

As I understand the news now about the Israeli-Arab war (by the way, why doesn't the United Nations Security Council pass a resolution limiting all future wars to four days? How long do you think football would last if a game went on for days and days?) Israel was fighting to maintain its right to the use of the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal by its ships or, as it's put in international diplomatic language, "innocent passage" through those waters.

Up till now I'll admit I wasn't familiar with that nautical term, "innocent passage," but I can see what it means and would like to recommend a more widespread application of it.

Why limit it to the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal? I never use those places myself and doubt if very many other people around Cameron do, although I don't try to keep track of everybody every time they leave town. It's their business whether they're going to the Gulf of Aqaba or Buckholts. What I'm saying is that what this country needs is innocent passage guaranteed to its citizens on the highway from Cameron to Dallas. From Washington to New York. From Washington to Philadelphia.

What the people of Los Angeles and New York and Washington and Philadelphia and dozens of other big cities need is innocent passage along their sidewalks, at least during the day time. It's probably asking too much at night.

If you can think of anybody we can declare war on to get this through, let me know.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Part-Time Jobs Become More Attractive To America's Women

The "part-time" job is becoming increasingly popular among America's women, says Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

There are more than 26 million working women in the country, but only two out of five of these work full time the year 'round. There are probably a number of attractions to "part-time" work, Mrs. Meyer explained. Part-time hours can be tailored to fit home-making duties.

Women with school-age children often find they have free time, but they also want to be at home when the children return from school. Part-time hours can meet both requirements.

Education is taking longer and costing more. About one in five part-time women workers are students, perhaps earning money to assist with their student expenses.

One of the most important influences, according to Mrs. Meyer, is the growing need for part-timers. Expanding service industries, with their varying labor demands and flexible hours, have proved to be a powerful magnet in attracting women back to work.

Peanuts aren't "peanuts" anymore

Peanuts are one of Texas' popular snack foods. Until recently, however, most farmers in the TP&L service area felt they could make only "peanuts" from peanut production.

But, now, farmers are beginning to realize substantial profits, thanks to new research and development techniques promoted by area agricultural organizations, including the Agricultural Development Division of TP&L.

In the southeastern and southwestern portions of the TP&L service area, a record $20.2 million were derived from peanut production in 1966. This was more than a $7.2 million gain over 1965.

The peanut is coming back into favor with the farmer. It has been a favorite at the ballpark and in the home for a long time.

ON AN EVEN KEEL

Young Stan learned to row this summer. It was hard work but he didn't complain about the blisters. He was a captain in control of his ship, and very proud of his new position!

Being in control is often hard work, even for adults. Many people wish they could control their tempers, or perhaps curtail bad habits, but they fail to find within themselves the strength of will that would help them.

When problems are too big for us, that's the time to ask God for assistance. We are His children and He knows all our weaknesses. Through church attendance and prayer, we can be guided to a more serene approach to daily life. We will find His presence a constant support as we begin to take pride in our new possession . . . self control.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Can You Match These Mothers and Daughters?*

Mother-daughter and father-son combinations aren't unusual at Southwestern Bell.

There are many reasons for this happy state of affairs. For one thing, ours is a good company to work for. For another, we offer a real opportunity for serving the public, an opportunity that calls for a true "spirit of service." We're pleased and proud so many of our Texas employees suggest a telephone career to their children. By doing so, they help insure the business will be in good hands for many years to come. We think this is a good thing for Southwestern Bell and for our customers.
